Featured Speaker for March...

Hayward Pool Products is the largest manufacturer of residential swimming pool equipment in the world.

Nowell Sellers is the Hayward District Technical Manager for the Sacramento/Pacific northwest area. Nowell has been with Hayward for the past three years, and has been in the pool industry for 18 years. Prior to Hayward he helped run a large successful commercial/residential pool and spa company in the bay area for 10 years. Nowell started in the pool industry in Michigan in 2001.

Education:

A Message from Monte...

I want to remind everyone, since it has been a while since we have had so much rain in the area, to be very cautious when draining a pool. The soil is going to be very saturated around the pool structure and draining a pool runs the risk of possibly "floating" or "popping" the pool shell out of the ground, due to the surrounding hydrostatic pressure. The weight of the water inside the pool is keeping the pool in the ground when there is standing water on the outside of the pool shell. When a pool is emptied during these conditions, the water in the ground wants to force the pool structure up. It is the same concept as forcing an empty bucket down into a full pool, you have to physically hold the empty bucket in place to keep it from popping back up. If the pool has a hydrostatic relief valve at the drain, then that valve is designed to release the water pressure into the empty pool, avoiding the dreaded "floating" of the shell, but not many pools have a hydrostatic valve. Every situation is different and many factors can affect the surrounding ground water, be cautious and use common sense when draining a pool!
